T. R. on Japan
War, with Comic Opera
Hara-kiri, or Newspaper
Wealthy Diplomat

By ARTHUR HUBBARD
HARVEST RANCH SAN SIMON, Feb. 5.—All the talk everywhere is about the Japanese war, which China plays the part of the punching bag.

Newspapers republish Theodore
Roosevelt's letter to President Taft written in 1910, saying "Our interest is to keep the Japanese out of our country and at the same time to preserve the good will of Japan. The vital interest of Japan on the other hand, is in Manchuria and Korea."

Warning Taft against "taking steps as regards Manchuria which will give the Japanese cause ground that we are hostile to them," Theodore Roosevelt added: "If the Japanese choose to follow a course of conduct to which we are averse, we cannot stop it, unless we are prepared to go to war; and a successful war about Manchuria would require a fleet as good as that of England, plus an army as good as that of Germany."

ROOSEVELT, in 1910, had no thought of airplanes, could not imagine that Japan would be conquering Manchuria with them, at least. Otherwise he might have suggested as flock of fighting planes as numerous as the pigeons on Saint Mark's square in Venice, backed by a fleet of submarines
as great as that of Japan.

Two conflicting statements in yesterday's news would interest
Roosevelt. One suggested that if Japan continues ignoring our pitiful appeals to be good, American citizens in China should be moved to Manila and protected there, on American home grounds.

Another report said this country and England would join in another protest.

It seems clear that Japan has adopted a program and proposes to go through with it, wisely concluding that no western country will do more than talk.

WHILE YOU READ rather dry
"copy" about Shanghai, conditions are not pleasant there. Bombs are dropping from planes on crowded city quarters, Japanese battleships are sending explosive shells into the city.

Many human beings, including women and children, are blown to pieces.

There are features of comic opera in the proceedings. While the bombarding and killing proceed, the Japanese commanding admiral is told that Uncle Sam's fighting ship Houston has appeared at the mouth of the river.

Immediately the Japanese admiral commanding "breaks out" an American flag, at his masthead, while the band on the Houston plays the Japanese national anthem.

IT IS RUMORED that the Japanese commandant, Admiral Kichio Shosawa, replaced by Admiral Mo-mura, has committed hara-kiri, to restore his honor. That operation consists in ripping open your addomen with a blade especially prepared.

In this country, the admiral would write for the newspapers, describe the Mikado as a moron, and the defensive system of Japan
as a joke.

MR. MELLON'S appointment as ambassador to England will interest that country. The arrival of the second richest man in the

ILLNESS FATAL TO DREYFUSS, BASEBALL HEAD

Noted Pittsburgh Leader Dies Today in N. Y. City Hospital.

OPERATED ON JAN. 6

Death Follows Development of Pneumonia; Had Notable Career.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Baseball league died today in Mt. Sinai hospital at 11:40 a. m., following an operation. He would have been 67 years old his next birthday.

Dreyfuss was operated on Jan. 6, for glandular trouble, and although he rallied for a time his strength was not equal to the task.

Pneumonia set in yesterday, the first complication since the operation, and the end then was seen as inevitable.

W. E. Benswanger, treasurer of the baseball club and non-in-law of Barney Dreyfuss, said he planned to take the body to Pittsburgh tonight with burial probably Sunday or Monday from the Dreyfuss home.

Among the men whose efforts placed America's national game on a high standard, none was entitled to more credit than Barney Dreyfuss.

Baseball was his prime interest. He devoted himself to improving the game in all its aspects. In the business end of the sport as well as on the playing field.

Dreyfuss was known as the shrewdest among the magnates of the major leagues. His business ability and acumen proved valuable assets to the National League when other organizations appeared to challenge its position at the top of professional baseball.

The owner of the Pirates was a strong factor in the defense of the organized game through two baseball wars. The first was that waged by the American League about the time Mr. Dreyfuss began to emerge as an important factor in the senior circuit. The second was the attempt of the Federal League to establish itself on an equal footing with the American and National Leagues.

The Pittsburgh club under the direction of Dreyfuss was uniformly successful, financially, and its owner was regarded as one of the wealthiest among baseball magnates.

Mr. Dreyfuss was born at Frelburg, Germany, Feb. 23, 1865, the son of Samuel Dreyfuss, an American citizen then resident in Germany.

FAIR AND WARMER IS FORECAST HERE

Change Expected To Bring Relief from "Little" Blizzard Yesterday.

Fair and warmer weather to-night, and increasing cloudiness and rain Saturday are promised Marion as relief from the effects of a little blizzard yesterday afternoon.

A sharp gale yesterday afternoon whipped the snow and sleet, transforming Marion's streets into a glare of ice. For the first time this winter, the boys and girls made use of their sleds last night. A warm sun this morning succeeding in melting much of the ice.

An old-fashioned New England blizzard swept Boston today, an Associated Press dispatch stated, ripping down power lines, crippling communication in the outlying districts and bringing heavy seas off the coast.

The United States Weather bureau forecast for Ohio, is for high winds and temperatures in the twenties tonight. The high temperature here yesterday was 36, with 24 the low mark for last night. A year ago the maximum was 47 degrees and the minimum was 23.

In Cleveland, the wind velocity reached 50 miles an hour. The cold and snow at Cincinnati added to the discomfort of flood victims in the Ohio river, but offered hope that the rising waters of the Ohio and its tributaries would subside.

CHURCH RUNS STORE TO REDUCE BUILDING DEBT

THE congregation of the Green Camp Baptist church has gone most church groups one better when it comes to earning money to reduce a building debt. While many churches sponsor suppers and socials to raise money, the Green Camp church has undertaken a permanent business venture for this purpose.

A grocery store is the means employed by the congregation to pay off the debt on the church building. "Cash and Carry" is the motto there are no unpaid bills and no costs for delivery service.

Five years ago, when Rev. Victor P. Powell accepted the pastorate, the church had a building debt of $10,000. Through the medium of socials and other church enterprises and contributions, this amount now stands at about $8,000.

Hits on Idea
Looking for something new to help with the debt, Rev. Mr. Powell suggested the plan of starting a community market in a log cabin near the church.

The idea was quickly taken up by the church members and in August, 1931, a lawn fête celebrated the opening of the "Log Cabin Market."

In a little over five months of operation, the store has averaged a profit of about $30 a month, according to Rev. Mr. Powell. The monthly sales amount to about $350, aided by advertising and community support. Transactions are on strictly cash basis. The stock includes nearly everything found in grocery stores, with an average of $200 worth of supplies on hand. About 10 hogs have been butchered and sold through the store so far this winter, while a great

VATICAN ISSUES NEW RULING ON MARRIAGE

Inter-Church Weddings Declared Illegal Unless Children Are Reared as Catholics.

By The Associated Press
VATICAN CITY, Feb. 5.—Marriage between Catholics and non-Catholics hereafter will be considered illegal by the church unless the children actually are educated as Catholics, a new and stricter ruling issued today by the congregation of the sacred office declares.

The ruling, tightening mixed marriage restrictions, was issued because of a belief that parties to such marriages often have disregarded promises that the children should be reared as Catholics.

The congregation decided that henceforth those who obtain the dispensation of the church for mixed marriage must take those promises seriously and that the church no longer will accept the plea that the laws of the countries where such persons reside prevent proper Catholic education of the children.

If necessary, the congregation decided, such persons must refrain from going to countries where they would be unable to keep their pledge to the church.

In case of any failure to educate the children as Catholics, the church will regard such marriages as illegal.

REIFF IS ARRAIGNED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Former Crawford County Highway Superintendent Enters Guilty Plea.

Special to The Star
BUCKYRUS, Feb. 5.—Chris Reiff, 61, former state highway superintendent in Crawford county, pleaded guilty in common pleas court to a charge of embezzling $2,170 from the department. Judge C. U. Ahl will sentence him Feb. 27.

Reiff was indicted more than a year ago after irregularities were discovered in his highway accounts. Arraignment on the charge was delayed on account of his health. He attempted to end his life by taking poison shortly after his arrest.

Theft of Supplies at Store Gives Evidence of Suffering of Ohio Runaways.

By The Associated Press
CHILLICOTHE, O., Feb. 5.—Blood-stained clothes and a pair of boots with flesh frozen to them today spurred authorities in their search for two runaways from the Lancaster Boys' Industrial school.

DR. SMITH OUT OF TAX GROUP, VIEWS DIFFER

Organization of League Continues After Marion Man Withdraws.

WILL CALL STATE MEETING

Physician Severs Connection with Committee at Columbus Session.

Withdrawal of Dr. Frederick C. Smith of Marion from the committee on constitution and by-laws of a proposed statewide tax reduction organization failed to halt the adoption of a constitution and by-laws for the organization in Columbus yesterday.

Dr. Smith, one of the pioneer advocates of a statewide tax reduction forces in this county's tax reduction activities, withdrew shortly after the committee met. He also withdrew a tentative constitution and by-laws which he had prepared when objections were made to some of the provisions.

The objectionable provisions of his proposed constitution and by-laws forbade the organization's participation in political activity of any kind, Dr. Smith indicated. His by-laws also provided that no public official, government employee, or holder of an elective public office could be a member of the organization.

Following Dr. Smith's withdrawal, the committee chose the Ohio Taxpayers' Protective league as the name for the statewide organization. Twenty counties were represented at the meeting, according to A. W. Jones of LaRue, also a member of the committee.

A meeting of the entire membership of all county tax reduction groups to be held in Hotel Southern Feb. 26, was scheduled by the committee. The league will be organized at that time. A. H. Todd of Huron county has been temporary chairman.

Fear that the organization would be used to further political and selfish interests if permitted to organize along the lines proposed at the committee meeting was given by Dr. Smith as the reason for his withdrawal.

21 MISSING AFTER SHIP GOES DOWN

Fishing Schooner Sinks in Collision with Steamer East of Halifax.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Twenty-one members of the crew of the fishing schooner Eleanor Nickerson of Boston were reported missing following a collision with the steamer Jean Jadot 265 miles east of Halifax today.

A radio message from the Jean Jadot to the Lloyd Royal Belgian line said the fishing schooner was sunk and that six members of the crew of 27 were rescued.

Mother, Child Rescued from Burning Home

A mother and her two-day-old child were carried to safety from a smoke-filled room about noon today when fire broke out in the home of Ernest Bayles at 120 Bennett street.

The fire, believed to have been started by her four-year-old son while playing with matches, caused $25 damage in a closet on the second floor. The mother and her child were carried to a neighbor's residence by firemen from No. 2 station who answered the alarm. The wallpaper, floor and door of the closet were badly scorched by the flames which were fed by rubbish in the closet.

The fire, it is believed, had been smoldering about a half hour before it was discovered.

Gar Wood Shatters World Record for Speedboats

By The Associated Press
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 5.—Gar Wood flashed over the placid waters of Indian creek at an average speed of 117.72 miles an hour today to reset his claim to the world's speedboat championship and give himself the "greatest thrill" of his life.

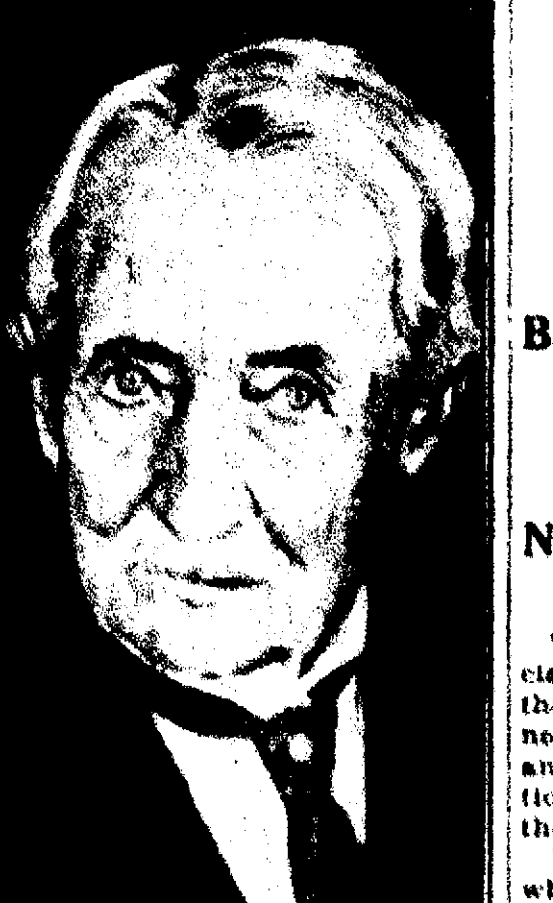

The speed was 1.08 miles an hour faster than the record held by Enzo Del Real, set on Lake Garda, Italy, last May.

Wood made two runs today. He averaged 124.76 miles an hour, but the record was not allowed because he failed by a mere fraction of a mile to beat Del Real by the required half-mile on his second run.

JOHN R. VOORHIS

DEATH TAKES TAMMANY HEAD

New York Democratic Organization Loses J. R. Voorhis, Grand Sachem.

RETIRED LAST OCTOBER

Aged Leader One of Oldest Political Office Holders in Country.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—John R. Voorhis, 102-year-old grand sachem of Tammany hall, died today at his home.

Despite his advanced age, Voorhis had continued his work as president of the city board of elections until October 29 of last year when he was retired by the board of estimate at his full salary of $8,000 a year. He made his request for retirement on October 8, the legislature last September having enacted a law permitting his retirement on full salary for life.

Lived Moderately
He celebrated his last birthday anniversary on last July 27, by making a radio broadcast. On that occasion his physician attributed Voorhis' ripe age to clean and moderate living.

As president of the Board of Elections he was the oldest person holding public office in New York City and perhaps in the country. He had been Grand Sachem of the Tammany Society since he was 83 years old.

Mr. Voorhis began his long public service in 1872, when he was appointed excise commissioner by Mayor Havemeyer of New York. Other positions to which he was appointed later included commissioner of docks and police justice. In 1901 he was named a commissioner of elections for New York City and was chosen president of the board. He

NEW STOCK MARKET WILL OPEN MONDAY

Arrangements Nearing Completion for First Sale; Opens at 1 P. M.

Arrangements for the first auction of the Marion Livestock Sales Co. Monday were rapidly nearing completion today. Stock is expected here from Marion and a half dozen surrounding counties.

Monday's sale will inaugurate a new method for stockmen and farmers of this district to market their stock. Auctions will be held each Monday with stock buyers and representatives of packing plants present to bid.

A representative of the Marion chamber of commerce was in Chillicothe today to witness a similar sale in that city. The chamber is sponsoring the sale of a dairy steer at Monday's auction, and will turn the proceeds from the sale over to the baby milk fund of the nutrition committee.

The sale will begin Monday at 1 p. m. at the site of the old Toledo Mfg. Co. on west Center street near the packing plant.

A BOARD OF S. S. EUROPA, Feb. 5.—Well, get the disarmament conference off to a good start. Can't say it wasn't running smooth when I left. No meeting yesterday on account of the war in China. They have to disarm between shots.

Now I am going to make you a prediction. I believe that conference will get somewhere. You know why? Just because nobody don't think it will. I believe they will just naturally do something.

HEAVY TOLL TAKEN BY BOMBARDMENT OF SHANGHAI AREA

Bodies of Chinese Soldiers Scattered Along Railway After Airplanes Attack Train Carrying Reinforcements; University Also Bombed.

NEXT PEACE MOVE UP TO POWERS, JAPS SAY

By The Associated Press
TOKYO, Feb. 5.—Japanese official quarters here indicated today that if there are to be any further negotiations between the powers and Japan on proposals for mediation in the Shanghai controversy, the next move is up to the powers.

Doubt was expressed, however, whether anything more would be done.

They swooped low enough to cut loose with their bombs and one of them struck a closed car, splitting it from end to end and scattering the bodies of Chinese soldiers over a wide area.

Before they attacked the train the planes dropped 12 bombs on Chienji university, wrecking one large building and setting fire to two others.

Shanghai shook to another terrific bombardment of Chienji this afternoon and there were reports the Japanese at last had succeeded in blasting the stubborn defenders out of their position around the strategic north station.

It was impossible to verify the reports, for the smoke from guns and fire hung so thick over the native city no one could see what was going on.

Wrecked Plane Found
Following aerial clashes preceding the train bombing, The Associated Press correspondent came upon the smoking skeleton of a Japanese bombing plane, brought down in flames as it swooped low to drop explosives on the headquarters. The wreckage was found near the headquarters of the commander of the Chinese Nineteenth army.

There were three charred bodies in the wreckage. A group of Chinese soldiers stood about in high spirits. Junk hunters were removing every piece of metal on the ship, but no attempt was made to remove the bodies of the airmen.

Planes Attack Forts
Simultaneously Japanese planes swooped about the Chinese forts at Woosung, guarding the mouth of the Whangpo 10 miles below, but after a two-hour bombardment the Chinese still were holding on.

For more than two days those forts have been under heavy fire. Repeatedly the Japanese have asserted they were reduced to scrap, but with each new day the bombardment has been resumed.

There was widespread belief the Chinese had received heavy reinforcements and it was known a force of 1,000 Japanese bluejackets was landed during the day.

Chinese airplanes played a part in today's action. One Japanese plane was shot down but both aviators and anti-aircraft gunners claimed the prize.

Quake Victims Sought.

By The Associated Press
SANTIAGO, Cuba, Feb. 5.—Volunteers joined 600 government employees in probing piles of wreckage today to establish the number of dead from earthquakes that wrecked the town Tuesday. The official death list was raised to 17, and Colonel Luis Del Real, military chief of Oriente province, expressed belief that more bodies would be found.

A report from the Japanese naval command said naval forces ashore had suffered nearly 10 per cent casualties since the fighting began. The total number of dead and wounded was placed at more than 300.

Meanwhile, the United States army transport Chaumont and seven United States destroyers steamed into Shanghai in the thick of the battle.

The Chaumont carried 1,200 American troops from Manila, and about 200 additional marines. The new forces bring the total United States strength here to almost 6,000 men.

Throughout a continuous roar of heavy shelling in Chienji the Chinese held their line with bulldog tenacity. There was widespread belief they had received considerable reinforcements to strengthen their apparently impregnable defenses.

Growing numbers of the Japanese turned their field guns on the Colds are caused by an ultravirus (cold germ) which science has not yet been able to isolate. But science does know that this infection gets into the system and multiplies before the symptoms appear.

That's why it is necessary to destroy and expel the infection from within.

Arthritis and High Blood Pressure Relieved

Mrs. J. P. Henry R. D. No. 6, Mansfield, Ohio, writes:

"I was so ill with Arthritis and High Blood Pressure that I thought I was going to die. I lost all hope because I tried so many different things without receiving relief. My joints became so stiff and painful that I could scarcely rise from my chair. My blood pressure rose to 190 and caused me much suffering with headaches and dizziness, and my stomach was upset. I am now taking my fifth bottle of Zo-Ro-Lo and can truthfully say that I can now eat anything I like and am free from headaches, dizziness and pain in the joints. I certainly consider these benefits from Zo-Ro-Lo miraculous and I am glad to tell others about this wonderful remedy."

TAX COLLECTION REACHES $213,542

The December tax collection figure was boosted to $213,542.19 as the sixteenth day of collections ended last night, according to County Treasurer R. G. Smallwood. This figure is larger by a margin of $19,601.67 than the collection a year ago, when $193,940.52 had been collected at the close of the sixteenth day.

Yesterday's collection amounted to $13,000.75.

RAIL NOTES

Excursion Train

An excursion to Chicago from Columbus and Marion will be operated on two roads over the weekend. The Chesapeake & Ohio railway will bring the Columbus passengers to Marion early Sunday morning when they and the Marion passengers will board Erie train No. 1, leaving here at 3:03 a. m. The return trip will be made from Chicago on Erie train No. 8, leaving at 10:35 p. m. Special rates will be in effect for the trip.

F. G. Lantz, freight traffic manager of the Erie, with headquarters in Chicago, passed through Marion last night.

Arthur Tennyson of Cleveland, traveling freight agent of the Western Pacific railroad, was a Marion visitor yesterday.

Traveling Freight Agent Rooney of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad was in Marion yesterday. Rooney's headquarters are in Cleveland.

A further increase in safety of operation on American railroads is shown in reports for the first six months of 1931 filed with the interstate commerce commission, summaries of which have been received at local railroad offices. Injuries were reduced 31 per cent from the first six months of 1930 while fatalities dropped six per cent from the same period.

Thomas H. Carrow, superintendent of safety of the Pennsylvania railroad, commenting on the reports, said the reason the percentage of reduction in fatalities is so much less than in the injury figure is that trespassing, highway grade crossing collisions and certain other classes of accident over which the railroads have but little control are included in the statistics.

Fatal injuries to employees, figures on the basis of the number of hours worked, were reduced 23 per cent and non-fatal injuries were cut 24 per cent, according to the report.

Fees Total $272.

Sheriff C. C. Fye during January collected fees amounting to $272.20, or 30 cents less than December fees, which totalled $272.50. In January a year ago, the fees amounted to $494.50.

Attends Meeting.

W. D. Brown, manager of the chamber of commerce, is attending the mid-year meeting of the Ohio Commercial Secretaries in Columbus today and Saturday.

Out for Surveyor.

Harry D. Moran of 155 Brenner court is circulating petitions in the interest of his candidacy for nomination as a candidate for county surveyor, not for sheriff as reported in the Wednesday issue of The Star.

Blank cartridge pistols made in England have plugged barrels, the gas generally escaping through holes near the muzzles.

Shanghai station where the infantry line began. Guns hurled shells north Honkew during the United States marines. They fell within the residence they patrolled, but they were unable to say whether they were from Japanese or Chinese planes. The Chinese claimed not to have driven off the Japanese, but to have brought down a second plane. Japanese planes denied the battle had taken place. Civil authorities said the Japanese were "nearby" and "tomorrow would bring 'something startling'." The Chinese are aching for a "showdown." The attitude presented by General Teal Ting-Kai, borne out by observations behind the Chinese lines. General Tai refused. It marked contrast with the military stiffness of the Japanese headquarters, those of General Tai were extremely informal. NEWSPAPER GROUPS PRESENT PROGRAMS

Former Marion Editor Included in List of Speakers at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5.—"Ohio newspaper week" reached the half way stage today with the meeting of the Buckeye Press association. The closing convention will be that of the Ohio newspaper association tomorrow. Meetings were held Wednesday and Thursday by the Associated Ohio Dances, the Select List of Ohio Dances and the Associated Press Editors of Ohio. Karl Bickel, president of the United Press, and Arthur S. Draper, assistant editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, addressed a joint banquet of the five groups last night. S. P. Barnett of the Cleveland Plain Dealer was reelected president of the Associated Press editors of Ohio. L. A. Brophy, of Chicago, Associated Press news editor, was among the speakers. Others were J. S. Knight of the Akron Beacon-Journal, Paul Siddall of the Alliance Review, W. W. Reynolds and J. K. Schmidt of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, Murray Powers, managing editor of the Portsmouth Times, former managing editor of the Marion Star, and J. D. Raridan, executive editor of Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc.

EIGHT DEAD FOUND IN WRECKED PLANE

Ruins of Air Liner Discovered in Mountains of California.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 5.—Missing nearly a week on a flight from Bakersfield to Los Angeles, a Century Pacific air liner was found in the mountains late yesterday, a mass of wreckage, holding the bodies of its pilot and seven passengers. The wrecked and burned plane was located by an Indian rider, three miles west of Fort Tejon, approximately 80 miles northwest of Los Angeles. Those aboard the plane, which disappeared in a mountain snowstorm last Friday were the pilot, J. V. Sandblom; Frank Dewar, chief deputy sheriff of Los Angeles county; J. H. Polhemus, coffee importer of San Francisco; W. H. Smith, retired business man of San Francisco; Miss Nita McGrath, of Berkeley, Calif.; Mrs. Margaret Pickel, of San Diego; Miss Marie Combs, of Hollywood; Spencer Swan, retired business man of Pomona, Calif. The wreckage was in snow-filled Johnson's canyon, near the summit of the Tehachapi mountains. Sandblom apparently was endeavoring to head back towards Bakersfield to escape the terrific storm when he crashed into the heads of the canyon.

Police Get Tip Victim May Have Brother in Bellefontaine.

Police today were working on a new lead in an effort to find relatives of a man believed to be James M. Flynn who died in a room at 324 Holmes Place Wednesday from monoxide gas poisoning from a gas stove. A man, whose name was not given, told the police this morning after viewing the body at the Schaffner-Queen funeral home that he believed Flynn had come from Bellefontaine and that he had a brother living in that city. The police immediately got in touch with the police at that place but had received no word this afternoon. Efforts of the police to find relatives or friends at Newark from where Flynn had received a letter while living at Charleston, W. Va., or at Charleston, failed yesterday. The man rented the room Saturday without giving to the landlady, Mrs. Mary Jennings, and police obtained his name from the letter found in his possession.

GREEN CAMP CHURCH OPERATES GROCERY

many eggs and other farm produce are handled regularly. Even house dresses and aprons made by a woman member of the church may be found there. A 20 per cent profit is the aim of the proprietors, and is the basis on which all prices are set. "We try to compete with no one," Rev. Mr. Powell said, "but merely run our own store at prices that will put us in the clear."

Members Take Turn

The church market is entirely a community proposition. So many days a week are set aside for each member to run the store, with the pastor taking his turn with the rest. The store is kept open each day until about 9 p. m. and runs special sales on occasions just as any other market.

The overhead is negligible, with the electric lights as the only item running expenses. There is no clerk hire, no rent and very little upkeep. In fact, there is very little to become run down about the one-room cabin which is more than 90 years old. It is thought to be the first house built in Green Camp.

At the start of the enterprise, it was the intention of the congregation to operate it as a community market, profiting from contributions by members and surrounding farmers. The store flourished for a time on the sale of seasonal fruit, vegetables, potatoes and other farm products, but with the approach of winter, a change was made to more staple articles purchased from wholesalers.

For the initial stock, it was necessary for the pastor to purchase it himself. After the christening party, however, it was found enough had been taken into the treasury to pay for the first supply and buy more.

Pastor Is Bookkeeper

Until a short time ago, Rev. Mr. Powell made monthly audits of his accounts, turning them over to the church trustees. As this was found to involve too much needless bookkeeping, the inventory is now made once every two or three months.

And in the meantime, this rare specimen of a commercial enterprise operated by a church continues to do a healthy trade with the citizens of Green Camp and the surrounding countryside. Many Marion residents are numbered among the frequent customers. The Green Camp Baptist church is more than 100 years old, having celebrated its centennial in October, 1930. The present church, which was built in 1921, is the third structure to be occupied.

ACCOMPLICE HINTED IN ARIZONA MURDER

State Witness Suggests Winnie Ruth Judd Is Shielding Some One.

By The Associated Press PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 5.—A hint that Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd had an accomplice in the gruesome slayings of Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi, and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, her two "best friends," has been injected into the woman's murder trial.

There was no court session today, due to Arbor day, but defense was in conference, drawing its lines to battle the testimony given yesterday by Dr. Joseph Catton, Stanford university professor and state alienist.

Dr. Catton told the jury that Mrs. Judd intimated to him she was shielding some one.

"Why don't you tell the complete story? Possibly it would do you some good," Dr. Catton testified he told her, her reply, he said, was: "I can't see where it will do me any good and it might harm others."

LITERARY DIGEST BALLOTS ARRIVE

Marionites To Vote in 20,000,000 Dry Poll.

A number of Marionites in the next few days will be asked to cast ballots in a "straw vote" on the Eighteenth amendment taken by the Literary Digest, according to information received from the magazine.

Ballots will be mailed to representative citizens. The ballots consist of postcards on which preference for the continuance or repeal of the amendment can be expressed. No signature is necessary on the ballot.

The ballots received here will be a part of 20,000,000 straw votes taken throughout the United States for opinions on the amendment, according to Dr. William Weaver Woods, editor-in-chief of the magazine.

VETS' TENT INVITES MEMBERS TO MEET

Harriet Beecher Stowe Tent No. 48, Daughters of Union Veterans, has issued an invitation to Cardington and Mt. Gilboa tents to be guests at a potluck supper and program Feb. 18 in the local American Legion banquet hall.

The tent met last night at the depot, following a potluck supper from which the proceeds will be used for the tent relief work. Commander Francis Lepton of the G. A. R. was present at the meeting on a guest of honor.

An invitation was received from Camped North Circle No. 28, which is to attend a Washington D. C. tent at the Red Star bridge on Feb. 18.

COPELAND COMBINE WINS PISTOL SHOOT

Captain R. E. Copeland's No. 4 team of the Marion Revolver association won a decisive victory last night on the police station range from the team captained by J. R. Wheeler. Copeland's marksmen turned in a score of 1659 against 1352 for Wheeler.

L. Groll and C. F. Keeler were high scorers for the Wheeler combine with scores of 379 and 344 respectively. W. F. Williams was high for Copeland with a score of 359 while E. C. Macken and N. M. Landes tied for second with a mark of 337.

The association will start competition on a new schedule next week.

remained on the board until 1908, when he was appointed superintendent of buildings. He was in the state service from 1911 to 1915 as state superintendent of elections, having been appointed by Governor John A. Dix. Returning as a member of the New York City Board of Elections in 1918, he was again chosen chairman of the board and continued in that position thereafter.

Born in New Jersey

Born at Pompton Plains, N. J. July 27, 1879, Mr. Voorhis had lived in New York City since childhood. Financial pressure cut short his school days when he was 13 and he went to work in the law office of John Jay at $1 a week. Later he was apprenticed to a carpenter, became a journeyman at 21, and afterwards a contractor, continuing in that business some time after he entered politics.

Associates of Mr. Voorhis attested to his keen mentality and the briskness with which he executed his work even when he was nearing the century mark. "He's a wonder," a co-worker said. "He can put his finger on anything in his desk, day or night, on a minute's notice."

40 ORGANIZATIONS WAR ON HOARDING

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Heads of 40 national organizations have been enlisted by President Hoover in his war on hoarding of badly needed dollars. The executives of virtually every unit capable of reaching large numbers of people are expected to attend the President's Saturday conference. Mr. Hoover and Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Corporation, will speak.

The reconstruction group yesterday heard its first direct appeals for aid from delegations representing Ohio and North Carolina. No commitments were made but the delegations said they were given reason to feel encouraged.

ALL A MISTAKE

No Threshing Machine Tax, Farmers Hear at Protest Meeting.

By The Associated Press LIMA, O., Feb. 5.—Erroneous belief that threshing machines were to be taxed $150 annually, sent 300 Allen county farmers through a blizzard last night to a "protest meeting" at Allentown.

At the meeting, George Durban of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Brotherhood of Threshermen, explained the error was due to misinterpretation of a recent ruling by Attorney General Gilbert Bennett.

The farmers had understood that agricultural implements were to be assessed like trucks at $150 per hundredweight. Durban advised them, however, that threshing machines, hay bales, and hulling machines were classed as "trailers" only when drawn by trucks, and that machines drawn by tractors are still exempt as under the old law.

Experts Fail To Agree, So Price Guessing Stops

By The Associated Press WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The agriculture department will make no more public forecasts on the probable course of prices for farm products.

This decision was reached because of pronounced differences among its experts of the 1932 farm outlook, and in the light of inaccuracy in past predictions.

Divergence of opinions of the 1932 prospect showed itself in the annual conference of federal and state economists last week. Some saw very cheerful signs, others were pessimistic. The state department decided to play safe.

A few years ago the department was prohibited by law from making any forecast of the price of cotton. This came after one of its forecasts had proved disastrously wrong.

Mrs. Harley finds out what Cellophane does for a Beauty Soap!

CAMAY IS SEALED IN CELLOPHANE JUST WHEN IT'S PERFECT FOR YOUR SKIN. IT'S ALWAYS AS FRESH AS FLOWERS FROM THE GARDEN!

"Your skin always looks as fresh as peaches and cream, Virginia!"
"That's because I use Fresh soap—CAMAY, you know. The lather is so much smoother and gentler!"

"It is marvelous what cellophane does for a Beauty Soap."
"This fresh Camay lather leaves my skin as fresh and soft-looking as Virginia's!"

State soap won't lather freely—and the lather is likely to be harsh. CAMAY, because it is just as fresh when it reaches you as it was when it was made, lathers luxuriously and instantly—and is gentler than any soap not wrapped in cellophane.

Camay is so suave and bland that it leaves your skin like silk. And no matter how hard the water, Camay lathers lightning-quick!

"This is small soap, Catherine. Lathers the minute you touch it!"
"It's CAMAY—and the cellophane wrapper keeps it fresh. Doesn't it make your skin feel smooth and soft?"

Getting into Line.

Another Democratic presidential possibility has thrown back his much photographed head and snuffed the wind that blows from the popular vote. The scene warns him to get "right" on the League of Nations before it is too late.

"In common with millions of my fellow-countrymen," explains Franklin D. Roosevelt, leader of the Democratic field and once the warm friend of President Wilson, "I worked and spoke in behalf of American participation in the League of Nations, conceived in the highest spirit of world friendship for the great object of preventing a return of the World War. For that course I have no apology."

It all looks different to him now, however, though he admits that if "the same or even similar factors entered into the argument" he would still favor America's entry into the League; and would even go so far as to seek to win over the overwhelming opposition which exists in the country today. But Mr. Roosevelt has heard a voice that tells him plainly this is no time for a man who would very much like to be president to espouse the dream of the greater Democrat who gave him his first place on the national political stage.

There are always several ways to do the same thing. Newton D. Baker, when he felt it necessary to explain how he felt about the League of Nations, merely said what all intelligent people knew: that he believed in the league, but did not believe in forcing the United States to participate in it until such action could take place naturally as the product of public opinion. Mr. Baker did not back down. Perhaps he was more anxious to keep his record clean than he was to clinch votes.

It appears that Mr. Roosevelt, on the other hand, has reshaped his ideas just a bit hastily. Even if he is perfectly sincere, and a man of his high aspirations should be, he has made the mistake of inviting suspicion as a turncoat by seeming to outdo Mr. Baker in getting lined up for voters' inspection. Those who have been skeptical of Mr. Roosevelt's qualifications are not reassured by this latest maneuver.

British newspapers, according to a London paper, are enraged over the bombing of Shanghai by the Japanese. So, no doubt, is the League of Nations, and the American press isn't taking kindly to it, but what are any, or all of them, going to do about it?

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, who would not sidestep a presidential nomination should it come his way, told a joint session of the Kentucky legislature that there should be an end to the whittling of the liberties of the people and voiced a demand for home rule and less taxes. That's square talk all right and sensible, but it may not attract the presidential lightning to his rod, as the political cards seem to be stacked against him.

Still a Good Story.

Doubt that the oath administered to Calvin Coolidge making him President of the United States following the death of President Harding was legal is interesting, but not important. No executive action of any importance was performed between the time the oath was administered and the time, fourteen days, eleven hours and fifty-eight minutes later when a second oath of undoubted legality was administered. In its first public presentation after all these years it appears like a question that may never be settled to complete satisfaction.

The story of the administration of the questioned oath by Mr. Coolidge's aged father, a notary public, is in a fair way of becoming one of the favorite national traditions, along with George Washington's innocent destruction of the cherry tree and Abraham Lincoln's trials of self-education. The Vermont farmhouse setting, the oil lamp, the simple directness of the action and its vast importance to the American people made a forceful combination that appealed to the imagination then as now. It's still a good story, whatever happens.

The former president's caution about expenditures has become proverbial. Perhaps the important part of the disclosure, so far as he is concerned, is the fact that he may have drawn $2,879.75 on his presidential salary illegally. It may require an extra week of column writing to balance the books before the matter is settled.

Ten Cents an Hour.

Wisconsin, where men are likely to be farmers and farmers are likely to be legislators, announces that it is about to bring farm relief from Washington to Madison with a bill raising $5,000,000 in income taxes to reimburse producers who sell below the cost of production. If passed, the tax will be effective from April 1, this year, to the end of 1933. During that time the department of agriculture and markets would determine the cost of production on Wisconsin farms, using as a basis the assessed valuation of the farm and an allowance of ten cents an hour for the farmer's time. Claims for reimbursement then would be in order.

The interesting feature of the bill to observers outside Wisconsin is the ten-cent-an-hour wage for farmers. Inside Wisconsin the idea of supporting farmers with state money probably takes precedence, but even there, no doubt, the valuation of the farmers' time is receiving attention. City dwellers may find it surprisingly low until they remember that the farmer works for himself. Farmers, on the other hand, may calculate rapidly that ten cents an hour for twelve or fourteen hours would bring them more real money in a month than they ever had all at once. They can be properly thankful that they happen to live in a state where the farmers' star is always in ascendancy. It must be very comforting to know that the state government will take care of its own as long as it has taxing power.

Certain questions come to mind, naturally, however. For instance, if the President of the United States is constitutional commander-in-chief of the departments are they not already combined in a time of war? Would it not, then, be possible to coordinate them similarly in times of peace for more effective operation of a national defense program?

Is it possible that opponents of the proposal are thinking more of the rivalry between the army and navy than of the broad benefits claimed for consolidation? Is it possible that national politics are preventing certain respected officials from indorsing a detail of the Democratic program? Finally, is it fair to warn against the proposal because it would create a job too big for any man to handle when no man has had an opportunity to show what he can do as supreme controller of the national defense? These questions will have to be answered before interested citizens will be convinced that the old way is the best way.

Editorial Opinion.

STABILIZATION, NOT INFLATION.
The question, to inflate or not to inflate, which has been troubling Wall Street for many months, is now being prominently voiced in congress. Advocates of remonetization of silver, who have been vocal for some time, are, of course, inflationists of a sort, but sponsors of a more direct type of inflation are now being heard. Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, has introduced a bill to permit the issue of federal reserve bank-notes to expand circulation. Senator Capper, of Kansas, hails the prospect of cheaper American money. Abroad the impression is growing that the United States has embarked on an inflationary policy.

The theory of currency inflation is that more money in circulation means cheaper money; that cheaper money means higher commodity prices; that higher prices mean more production; and more production, more jobs. In practice, however, cheap money drives good money, of whatever sort, out of circulation. It continued long enough, as it was in Germany, to after the war, inflation simply wipes out values. To any such quick remedy for the depressed President Hoover and the treasury department are resolutely opposed.

In a technical sense, it is true, the new Reconstruction Finance corporation may be described as inflation, since it will create credit where credit does not now exist. But it will not create credit out of thin air; it will make credit easier for banks, industry and agriculture now strait-jacketed by a national policy of liquidation carried to extravagant lengths. One of the chief reasons for this credit contraction is, in Hoover's words, that "the discount facilities of our federal reserve banks are restricted by law more than those of the central banks in any other countries." Already there are signs that the federal reserve system intends to enlarge its discount facilities to meet the emergency.

But that process would take much time, whereas the same end will be reached quickly by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Properly speaking, the new corporation is not an inflationary move, but a necessary step in the direction of credit stabilization. But it will not do so by the easy and ruinous device of the printing press.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

THE STRANGE CASE OF THE CHINESE.

From the western point of view the most striking feature of the military mix-up in China is the demonstrated futility of Chinese opposition to Japanese armed forces. In the various engagements in Manchuria and in the fighting at Shanghai, disparity in numbers apparently counts for nothing. The small, well-armed and well-disciplined Japanese forces advance at pleasure, and the Chinese troops flee in disorder.

Still more striking is the attitude of the Chinese populace. Though disorderly bands of students riot and destroy property, they accomplish nothing beneficial to their country. There are no reports of Chinese civilians flocking to recruiting stations to take up arms in defense of their country. The curiosity of the Chinese masses leads them to gather as spectators to mark the progress of the street fighting in Shanghai's native quarter, but no desperate efforts to drive back the invaders disclose a fighting spirit among the citizens. Meanwhile Japanese reservists living in Shanghai rush to their country's colors and take an active part in the military operations of the Japanese marines.

China's protests to the western powers, voiced by the feeble Nanking government, are both shrill and persistent, but Nanking's call to the people of all the Chinese provinces to take up arms in defense of their common country is sadly belated. A citizen of the West fails to understand why hordes of Chinese, armed with any weapons that might come by hand, do not sweep back the Chinese by mere force of numbers, even though at enormous cost in Chinese lives.

If the spirit of the Japanese or the spirit of the West had lodged in Chinese bosoms, so great would be the uprising of the people at this time that great armoured China suddenly become a united nation, fused into an unconquerable mass of militant patriots. But China fights effectively only with boycotts, not with arms.

Long years of civil strife, with provincial army against provincial army, apparently have brought the world's most populous nation no nearer to realization that internal strife and disunion, if long persisted in, constitute national suicide. China's lack of a true national spirit is its fatal weakness. It is a lack that has persisted through many hundreds of years, and has furnished the opportunity for a succession of alien conquerors.—Chicago News.

Value of Bulky Foods.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Until a few years ago, the value of foods was expressed in terms of their content of protein, carbohydrates and fat. The next step forward in food appraisal was the recognition of the value of the vitamins. At a later date, the value of the vitamins was discovered and acknowledged.

Although the literature on nutrition contains hardly more than brief references to it, there is another element which foods contain in varying degrees. It is only recently that some of our leading physicians have come to recognize its importance.

I refer to the quality that some foods have for promoting the physical well-being. This evidence of good health is shown by one's spirits, the clearness of the eye, the lustre of the hair, the smoothness of the skin, and the general bodily comfort. All these good effects result from the normal functioning of the digestive tract. Needless to say, the delightful sense of well-being has its influence upon the behavior, good nature, and efficiency of the individual.

One of the foods which carries this most recently recognized factor in greatest abundance is wheat bran. So important has this food become as an adjunct of our diet, that special methods of cooking, flavoring and crumbling have been perfected. These methods increase both the palatability of the bran and its value to the system.

One quality in bran has been recognized more than its others—that its use is an ideal way to add cellulose or bulk to the diet. This helps amazingly to relieve common constipation in a safe and natural manner. This quality is so generally understood that bran is recommended for this purpose in many of our standard medical works.

Within the past few months clinical investigation has proved another thing. It shows that bran is rich in vitamin "B" which improves the tone of the intestinal muscles. It has been established, too, that bran contains relatively large amounts of iron. This mineral is most important in the making of good red blood. This inorganic iron in bran is easily assimilated by the body because it is accompanied by a small amount of copper. The two metals act together for the welfare of the human family.

It is safe to say that constipation attacks fifty per cent. of our population. It is one of the greatest obstacles to our physical well-being and efficiency. Because of this it is easy to see the importance of this particular food factor, and our widened knowledge regarding it.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

Miss D.K. Q.—For the past three months I have been troubled with small water blisters on my hands—mostly around by fingers. What is this due to and what can be done to clear it up?

A.—Probably eczema, caused by some infection in your system. Watch your diet and be sure that the bowels function regularly. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Many Thanks. Q.—I am a girl in my teens, 17 pounds underweight. I keep losing constantly have no appetite. What would you advise?

A.—Have an examination to definitely locate the source of the trouble. In the meantime try to improve your general health. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

S.E.B. Q.—What can be done for pimples?

A.—What will remove hair from legs and arms?

A.—First correct the diet, by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Avoid constipation. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Monday, February 5, 1912. China, the oldest empire, became a republic. About ever since it has been the scene of revolts and wars.

Mrs. Helen Blanch Brady and Mr. Albert L. Carpenter were married by Justice Charles E. Gomph.

Chief of Police McDonough gave orders to the police to stop every one they did not know who were found by them walking the streets after midnight.

BY TEMPLE MANNING
When people ask whether religion is dying out in the world it might be well to remind them of the grave of Noah in El Mualakah. Hardly a day passes that the faithful do not decorate this holy spot with garlands of flowers.

The traditional resting-place of the bones of the great Ark builder is marked by a huge mound. Noah, according to the stories handed down from ancient times, was no less than 152 feet tall. According to tradition, there were giants in those days. Compared to Noah, Seth, the third son of Adam and Eve, whose grave is near El Mualakah, was a midget who only achieved the height of fifty-five feet.

Noah is supposed by the Moslems to have lived to be 950 years old. They respect his memory just as do Christians, and his grave was a Mecca for the Mohammedans long before the Christian era.

Not far off from the famous mound will be found the extraordinary ruins of Baalbek. These are the remains of an edifice so ancient that nobody really knows the circumstances of its founding. Some authorities declare that this towering heap of stone was once the Biblical Tower of Babel. The Moslems, however, believe that the builder was Cain, who threw it up as a mighty fortress to defend himself after he had slain Abel.

Nimrod, the mighty hunter, is said to have been one of the early settlers at this place, and he is supposed to have had considerable connection with making the scene the first site where idols were worshipped.

So mighty are these ruins even today that some writers claim the great towers and walls could only have been constructed in an era when mastodons and other huge historic monuments were used to lift the stones into place.

Distinguished visitors like Abraham, kings and patriarchs all came to this place, and Solomon is reported to have erected a palace there. In the chief temple wall there are three stone blocks that weigh from eight to 100 tons each. This gives credence to the theory that the Phoenicians, masons and architects of tremendous structures, were the original settlers.

Today you will find many great archaeologists backing the opinion that the Temple of the Sun at Baalbek was the most magnificent and perfect temple ever seen on the face of the earth. Earthquakes have demolished the pillars of this building's fifty-four gigantic pillars, which flash golden hues with tints of pink and red when the sun is shining.

A Chase Story.

BY J. H. CALBRAITH
In 1867, when Salmon P. Chase was chief justice of the United States, a story became current that he had a private fortune of more than $700,000—a very large one for that day. This imputation was, of course, that he had made it through knowledge that came to him as secretary of the treasury. A friend promptly denied the story in a letter to the press, but Mr. Chase ignored it. He did, however, write a letter to this friend in which he set forth his financial condition.

Mr. Chase thanked his friend, but added: "Still I am unwilling to acknowledge any jurisdiction of anybody over my private affairs. What does it concern anyone whether I am worth $700 or $7,000,000, if I have wronged nobody and misused no trust? I never made a cent by any use of public funds or by any knowledge acquired in a public capacity. After congress confined in me the great power which would enable me, if so inclined, largely to affect values of all kinds, I wholly restrained from speculation of every sort—even from the most lawful and innocent of transactions."

"The general result of my business, both professional and from private investments, more or less permanent, has been a gradual improvement of my condition, especially of late years, as to income, for never having been able to live when senator, governor or secretary on my salary and practice a decent hospitality, I have always sought to convert unproductive property into more productive. The improvement in actual value is so slight that I would be willing to exchange all I have today for what I had in 1842. And my private income will gladly take $100,000 for the whole of my property, if any one will take it and pay my debts."

Dinner Stories.

"I observe that you do a great many favors for that influential citizen."

"Those aren't favors," answered Senator Sorghum; "those are investments."

"Do you think that an actor's response to curtain calls destroys the artistic illusion?"

"No," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes. "Sometimes it enhances the effect. The contrast convinces the audience that he was really acting."

"That's a nice refrigerator," commented stranger to Crimmon Gulch.

"Yep," replied Plute Pete. "We ordered it special."

"Lots of refreshments in it?"

"No. We got it so's to keep our game properly chilled down. Every pack of cards that ain't in use is kept in cold storage, so that if any little strangers get to flourishin' around the game they'll be noticed immediately."

Cheap French Wine.

BY ALICE LANGUEUR
Paris, Feb. 5.—L.N.S.—Many are deligh the news that wine will be plentiful and c er during the new year. Leone Douard, rector of the international wine offic France, had reported that the average of good red wine will probably be no than five cents a gallon within a few m if prices continue to fall as they have during the past month.

The wine harvest of 1931 has furnished 457,000 hectolitres. If the stocks in the ers' hands at the beginning of the wine vest are counted and the 15,300,000 hect of the Algerian harvest—most of which to France—be added as well, there will stock of 76,837,000 hectolitres this year is 62,268,000 more than last.

Plans for a Greater Paris promise ahead at great strides during 1932. At cent meeting of the general council it announced that at least $1,000,000—at the rate of exchange—will be spent on th provement and development of roads in immediate neighborhood of Paris.

A program of construction, repairing, enlarging churches in the Paris district, will fill a dire need and at the same time vide work for many unemployed, has been lined by Cardinal Verdier, the Archbishop Paris. Nine new churches will be built many others remodelled.

Work on the continuation of the dial matic telephone system will also progress idly. Only people who have tried to s number in Paris can appreciate the great portance of this work. Instead of ge better, the French telephone system seen grow worse and worse every day, with lo waits, more wrong numbers, and more in tinence on the part of the "Allo" girls. provement is marked in the exchanges h have become dialized. It is expected th Paris will have dial phones by 1937.

Pleasant for the policemen was the praise proffered by popular Prefect Chi pointing out that during the past year 40,000 people came to Paris to see the Colk exposition, that a large number of sove and foreign statesmen were entertained, that hundreds of public gatherings took p without serious accident or incident.

Chief Chlappe also cited statistics sh a diminution in the number of crimes of lence during the past year, and proved the police campaign against the drug tr is being most successfully waged. DOROTHY MACKALL UNIT SHOW BILLED IN SOUTH SEA STORY AT PALACE THEATER; RUGGLES IN PICTURE

A woman who once took the easy road of life redeems herself on a Caribbean island in "Safe in Hell," which will close Saturday night at the Ohio. If you believed Ronald Colman's "The Unholy Garden," "Safe in Hell" will seem more plausible. Dorothy Mackall is the woman of easy virtue. Ralf Harolde is the man who caused her downfall and Don Cook is the man whose love she is so anxious to keep that to save herself from Morgan Wallace, prison keeper on the island, she goes to her death. She believes she has killed Harolde. He arrives, explaining that when police believed he had died in a burning home, he collected his insurance and means to hide for a while before going back to spend his money. She kills him when he comes to her room, and is tried for murder. Acquitted, she later declares herself a murderer and is sentenced to be hanged, because she learns that Wallace plans to rearrest her and keep her at his prison camp. A comedy and newsreel are on the bill.

The Palace will offer a unit show Saturday and Sunday, with Count Bernivici's all-girl show the principal attraction. The show recently played in Detroit, and has appeared in Chicago and the Palace theater in New York. Reports from the theater state. In addition to the girl show of 20 people, will be Leslie and Rawlins, a black face comedy act, Inez LaVarr, an acrobatic dancer and a girls nine-piece PEGGY SHANNON orchestra. The screen will offer "The Reckless Age," featuring Charles Rogers, Charles Ruggles, Peggy Shannon, Richard Bennett and Frances Dee. Bennett is the father of the naughty Constance, second Marquise de la Falsaise, Joan and Barbara who is Mrs. Morton Downey. The picture is based on a play by Lewis Beach.

Quartet Members Present Program
at Newark Club

Members of the Colonial quartet and Mrs. Harold K. Mouser of the Lecture Recital club were in Newark yesterday, the guests of the Women's Music club at a program and tea. The program was presented by the Marion group as an exchange courtesy between the clubs. Mrs. Eugene H. Moore and Mrs. C. L. Rutherford were heard in vocal groups and Mrs. Mouser presented a piano group.

Members of the quartet, composed of Mrs. R. O. Bresler, Mrs. Rutherford, Mrs. Moore and Miss Dora Jacobs sang the groups which they presented in the Lecture-Recital club program recently and Mrs. Moore sang "The Linden Tree," Schubert, "At the Well," Hagaman and "I Love Life," Manzuca. Mrs. Rutherford's group included "Thoughts Have Wings," Lehman, "The Open Door," and "Your Step is a Light Step," the music for which was composed by Mrs. Harold K. Mouser. The piano numbers were "Reflexes dans l'eau," Debussy and "Feux Follets," Philppa.

Mrs. C. F. Lytle, president of the

Furloughed Missionary Talks
at Meetings of Church Groups

MISS CATHERINE WOODS,

furloughed missionary from China where she has served 22 years, was guest of honor at two church social affairs, one a tea, yesterday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church and the other a party last evening at the home of Mrs. R. A. Todd of 134 Uhler avenue at which members of Catherine Woods auxiliary were hostesses. The auxiliary, a church group of the First Presbyterian church, was named in honor of Miss Woods.

The auxiliary presented Miss Woods with $25 in gold for use in her missionary work, and also a personal gift of handkerchiefs, presented to her as an old-fashioned bouquet. Miss Woods' gifts to the auxiliary were a large photograph of the school and scholars in China where she is teacher and which the auxiliary aids by gifts of money, a pair of embroidered Chinese slippers like those worn by Chinese women whose feet are bound, and several pieces of exquisite Chinese embroidery.

Today, Mrs. S. E. Barlow of 1126 east Center street, kept open house for Miss Woods. They were close friends before Miss Woods left for her missionary work in China, and while she is here, Mrs. Barlow has been her hostess. She left this afternoon. Her work in China will be taken up in the spring.

A stewardship devotional service, conducted by Miss Jessie Henderson, opened the auxiliary program last evening. Miss Helen Atchinson gave a story of the organization of the auxiliary on Oct. 12, 1919, with a charter membership of nine. Three of the charter members were present. They were Mrs. Mabel Kirtz, Miss Atchinson and hostess club, entertained at tea following the program at her home on Jefferson road. The program was presented in the parish house of the First Lutheran church.

STUDENTS TO WRITE SONG FOR SENIORS

Pupils will enter contest as Annual Event.

Competition for authorship of the senior class song has started at Harding high school.

Each year students of the senior class write a class song. The song best representing the spirit of the class and of the school, is selected from the large number submitted in the contest.

This year, the entries for the con-

EVERY WOMAN
faces this question

"How do I look to other people?" If you have a lovely skin, attractive eyes, and plenty of enthusiasm, you need not worry.

So many women, though, risk their beauty by neglect of constipation. It often causes loss of pep, sallow skins, dull eyes, pimples.

Yet constipation can be overcome by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. This cereal provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B which tones the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Special cooking processes make it finer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming.

Surely this is safer than abusing the system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoons daily will correct most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Women Democrats Name Party Precinct Workers

Mrs. E. J. Hollandshead Installed as President of Club as Group Lays Plans for Coming Campaign; Set Goal at 1,000 in Drive for New Members.

The Marion County Democratic Women's club outlined its program for the year, installed officers and appointed precinct, county and committee chairmen, at a meeting last night in the Democratic headquarters on east Center street.

Mrs. E. J. Hollandshead of east Center street was installed as president, by Mrs. L. T. Young, installing officer. The meeting drew an attendance of 81 women.

The promotion of democracy, co-operation in civic affairs, organization of the women of the county for the good of the party, educational programs and social affairs will be the objects of the club this year.

A goal of 1,000 additional members in the women's division before November was set. To stimulate the women to take a keener interest in the elections, the club will hold an executive meeting with the chairman of each committee and in each precinct and district in the county, before the registration date.

To Meet Monthly
The club made plans to invite a speaker to attend the monthly meetings.

Officers installed with Mrs. Hollandshead as president, Mrs. Emma Roeder, vice president; Mrs. H. D. Cole, recording secretary; Mrs. Russell Wilhelm, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. M. McAndrew, treasurer. Committees were appointed as follows: Program, Mrs. Grover C. Snyder, Mrs. E. H. Morgan, Mrs. John T. McNamara, Mrs. L. A. Aze, Mrs. J. J. Stafford, Mrs. C. J. Moran; membership, Mrs. Stella Smith; custodian, Mrs. Henry Ebert.

The following ward chairmen were appointed: Mrs. Emma Roeder, first; Mrs. H. D. Cole, second; Mrs. E. E. Lynch, third; Mrs. Jennie Furstenger, fourth; Mrs. Rose Rosenberg, fifth and Miss Edna Sautter, sixth.

An instructive program on civic affairs was led by Mrs. John T. McNamara. As leader, she questioned the club on various civic projects, and the answers were discussed in a round table discussion. Jean Drake entertained with two humorous readings. Lunch was served preceding the adjournment. The club will meet March 3 at the headquarters.

BOY CRAZY

by GRACE PERKINS

CHAPTER ELEVEN

HOPE sat back and brushed her wind-blown hair from her face with the palm of her hand. Dickey had unconsciously put his foot harder on the gas and the roadster sailed along through the moonlight with a smooth speed.

Out of the corner of her eye Hope studied Dick. The picture delighted her. The thought of marriage thrilled and excited her. A week ago—that was when he first proposed. . . . She remembered his asking her to sign. . . . Why, how gorgeous a trick he had played! Asking her to sign a pledge of love, and all the time she was signing a license. . . . She threw back her head and laughed deliciously. Goody's only engaged, but she'd be married! What would everyone say? And what could they do about it once she was married.

(Copyright, Grace Perkins)

"I wanted a wedding—and a veil—," she shouted against the wind. "Sorry. Can't wait for it," Dickey called back.

"But, Dickey—the folks—"

"We'll call them up in the morning!"

He slowed down slightly and turning, smiled at her. His big open daring smile. Her own lips curved in spite of herself. Up went his right arm over his head, and around her shoulder, drawing her close.

"You love me, honey?"

"Dickey—I think you're wonderful!"

"I am wonderful," he agreed, and with a bend of his head he kissed her cheek lightly. "And you're wonderful too. Wonderful girl!"

"You're my man!"

"You're my woman!" I knew it, little cricket, the day I first saw you sprawled every which way in the snow, I said to myself, there's the little girl that was born and raised for me. There's the little girl I'm going to make a home for, and love all my days—and I am going to, Hope.

Hope shut her eyes, glorying in the spell of such sweetness, her cheeks hot with excitement and adoration. He was so sweet, so good, so real. . . .

They drove in blissful silence, the trees swishing by them, the branches waving slightly in the spring wind, as if nodding their approval. The country houses, set back from the road, twinkling little lights from the windows, knowing-ly. . . .

The roadster met up with the steep hill that marks the state border and swooped gracefully upward with barely a trace of diminished speed.

The top of the hill brought the lights of a little town squarely within their view.

Hope caught her breath. She sought to struggle upright, as if in an effort to dispel this mysterious ether of infatuation. But Dickey's arm tightened about her shoulder.

"I know where the justice of the peace is," he said quietly. "It's only about eight blocks away."

"Oh, what if he isn't?" Or if we can't wake him?" piped Hope, as if such a contingency might truly be an answer to her growing panic.

"Leave it to me, beautiful, leave it to me."

When, 20 minutes later, Hope and Dickey emerged from the old brown, wooden house of the justice of the peace and silently climbed back into the back-seat of a car that had been their wedding coach-and-four, they looked at each other with shy, tremulous smiles.

Married!

As easily as that! As strangely, undramatically, matter-of-factly as all that! By a tired, kind, bored man, who had little to say and said that little well. With two house servants as witnesses to the nuptials of the richest girl in all Westchester! With Dickey in a two-year-old tuxedo, and Hope in a white velvet evening gown—her entire costume providing nothing new, nothing borrowed, nothing blue!

It didn't seem possible. Married!

Hope drew in a frightened breath and gazed up at an adoring, blissful face.

"Hello Mrs. Dale," said Dickey softly.

For no reason at all, Hope put her head down on his shoulder and cried. His arms went swiftly around her and held her quivering little figure close.

"Why are you crying?" he demanded softly. "Aren't you happy, darling? Honey, I'll be good to you. Aren't you happy?"

Muffled against his spring tweed coat came the answer. Something to the effect that she was happy! Too dreadfully happy.

She felt his fingers lifting her chin upwards. His lips kissing away the tears and pressing themselves against her trembling mouth. The sounds of another car wrenched them from their reverie. Huddled together, they watched. Hands clasped tightly, cheek against his coat, beautifully, safely close, they watched. Another car was slowing up just in front of them. A big, closed car, that gave a heaving sigh as the engine was turned off. Sounds of voices. Two women and a man climbing out. One of the women being enveloped by the embrace of the man. A tall man with a mustache. And the other woman watching, with a weak-kneed yellow smile in the light of the street lamp. Then the three talking, mumbling, laughing giddily. Climbing the steps and ringing the doorbell of the justice of the peace.

Hope and Dickey watched impressed. Another couple going to take the plunge!

When the door was closed, Dickey turned back to Hope. Kissed her again. As if he had never had a chance to kiss her before. "Baby," he said solemnly. "You belong to me now. You're my little wife. My good luck. My honey."

"You belong to me too," she whispered huskily. "I'll be a good wife. Dickey. Only I think now we ought to fix things. I mean, we'll probably be terribly in Dutch. I must call Dad."

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mudge and Lillian Return to the Young Folks and Note That the Scheme Planned to Break Marion's Infatuation for Owen Is Progressing.

I FOLLOWED Lillian docilely into the living room where the young people were dancing. I knew, of course, that her intention that we were needed because Noel and Ronald might be "at each other's throats," was only the diverting nonsense she meant it to be. She patiently was trying in every way possible to keep my attention occupied during the trying time of waiting for the return of our men from the lonely place upon the bay where they were to meet Hugh Greenland and Lee Chow. I was grateful enough to follow her every suggestion, but I could not force myself to give any real thought to anything save the question of Dickey's safety.

We came through the door unobserved, so occupied were the young people with their own affairs. On the floor Hank and Bill were dancing wholeheartedly with Marion and Carolyn, while Ronald and Bob Trevellan, near us, but with their back to the door, were talking in low tones, which, however, we could not help overhearing.

A Plan to "Hook" Hank

"I'll do something to that Worcester insect pretty soon," Bob muttered, in his tone the disdain with which a college sophomore regards a boy from a preparatory school. "Dye see what that Hank has been handing me—ME, the future hope of the Yale backfield!"

"Have a heart!" Ronald adjured him. "I'll admit he's been stealing your girl away from you pretty regularly, but—"

"Regularly!" Bob's exclamation was almost a squeak. "I haven't had a chance to dance two consecutive minutes with Carolyn since the music started. Every time I get comfortably going, that mosquito comes buzzing around and takes her away."

"She doesn't seem to be protesting, that I can see," Ronald said in a judicious tone, plainly calculated to irritate his friend.

"Wow! Right on the wrist!" Bob retorted. "You can't get a rise out of me that way, old socks! Do they ever protest cut-ins, even from kindergarten, lots who have just learned to walk? That shows their popularity. And if you had the spirit of a word-deflected-by-censor, you'd haul that Hank over to the sidelines by the scruff of the neck, and keep him talking about football until I had one uninterrupted dance at least."

"All right, you poor dub," Ronald said.

aid said, "Go along, cut in on her now, and I'll be close behind you with the book for Hank."

A Promise Asked

"Thanks a lot. Whenever you want any dead buried, call on Mrs. Trevellan's little boy, Bobbie, the quicklime expert."

He advanced toward Carolyn and the blissfully unconscious Hank with a determined tread, Ronald lounging lazily after him. Lillian touched me on the arm.

"Did you notice that Bob gave Ronald no word of rally about Bill's continuous dancing with Marion?" she murmured.

"That's because he probably realizes the situation about Owen," I replied in an equally low tone.

"Those boys will rag each other unmercifully about anything under the sun—except some real mishap or unhappiness. Then they have exquisite tact."

"They surely have," she replied, but her tone was absent, and, following her eyes, I saw that she was watching her young daughter closely.

Marion was worth watching. I said to myself as I gazed, vibrant, with winsome, flowerlike face, turned to Bill's adoring one, she danced past us. But plain to Lillian's experienced eyes and mine though totally lost upon Bill and the other boys was the furtive watch she was keeping upon Ronald. Apparently she was absorbed in what Bill was saying to her, yet I knew that she missed the movement of Ronald's "bow," doted, somewhat wistful look that had been in her eyes at the dinner table was more pronounced now, but I had no slightest stirring of sympathy for her, and I was sure her mother was equally hard-hearted. She needed every bit of the treatment Ronald was meting out to her, and I hoped that the boy would not weaken in his promise to me to neglect her and carry on an apparent flirtation with Mary.

Lillian's thoughts were following mine. I knew that as she whispered to me, "Do you see Mary?"

At the left of the door through which we had come there is an alcove which I had lined with bookshelves and shut off with heavy curtains when I first came to the farmhouse. The curtains are generally always drawn aside unless someone is studying there and wishes to be free from interruption. I had not looked toward the recess as we entered, but at Lillian's query I glanced toward it, and saw that the curtains, while not entirely closed, were as far apart as usual. Anyone inside was effectively sheltered from observation, and even as I touched Lillian's arm and indicated my belief that Mary was behind the curtain the girl's voice, low, faint, so beautifully enunciated that every syllable was distinct, sounded in our ears.

"And you'll promise not to be jealous? You'll know why I am doing it?"

Diet Didn't Do This

HAPPY little girl, just bursting with pep, and she has never tasted a "tonic."

Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.

Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the body's vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that keeps the system from getting sluggish.

If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! They will move with better rig, and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. find it just as wonderful for a too, in larger spoonfuls!

Get some Syrup Pepsin; p your household from those 1 days, frequent headaches, and sluggish state of half-brain means the bowels need stimulant. Keep this preparation in the to use instead of harsh cath that cause chronic constipation taken too often. You can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin any drug store; they have ready in big bottles.

ADD WAITING ROOM TO RELIEF OFFICE

City Officials Act To Eliminate Congestion at Municipal Building.

To provide more comfortable quarters for those who gather on the second floor of the city hall to wait for the relief commissioner, C. M. Tobin, Mayor W. E. Phillips and Safety Director Emory Murphy have arranged a waiting room adjoining the commissioner's office.

The room has been equipped with benches on three sides and while intended primarily for the comfort of the women, men will be permitted to use the room. Women will be given the preference.

A door connecting the waiting room with the office of the commissioner will enable those receiving orders to go from one to the other without going into the hall, helping to relieve the congestion.

The addition of a girl to assist in issuing orders has also helped to relieve the congestion. The office is now open eight hours each day. From 350 to 500 persons are given orders each day.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS ENTERTAIN DEPUTY

Members of Loyalty Camp No. 8700, Royal Neighbors of America, entertained their deputy, Mrs. Harry Esterbrook of Columbus, last night at the home of Mrs. Hazel Thompson at 238 Olney avenue. Mr. Esterbrook accompanied the deputy here.

The meeting was well attended. Lunch was served by the members. A birthday cake was presented for Miss Clara Maynard and Mrs. Esterbrook. The next meeting will be in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Pearl Chickelton in Prospect, on her wedding anniversary.

Hemorrhoids Go Quick

All Pile Misery Ended Without Cutting or Salves.

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard was the first to discover a real internal remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 980 cases, and then decided to let the world suffer no more from piles. He succeeded in making HEM-ROID tablets from their own drug with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonard's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when you can get HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?—Adv.

C. of C. To Sponsor Meet of Marion Business Men

Proceeds from Dinner Will Go to Baby Milk Fund Here.

The Marion chapter of commerce, in cooperation with the Ohio chamber, will stage a community-wide meeting of all business interests in Marion next Tuesday night in the Eagles temple for consideration of "What's Ahead of Ohio For 1932."

Karl S. Kumlér, field secretary for the Ohio chamber, will be the principal speaker.

The dinner will be served by women of the nutrition committee of the community fund, with the profits going to the baby milk fund of the nutrition department. Tickets will be 50 cents each, and the Ohio chamber is matching each ticket with another 50 cents to boost the proceeds for the milk fund.

Rotary and Kiwanis club members have set aside their weekly luncheon next week to cooperate in the community-wide meeting. One hundred and fifty are expected.

The meeting will be part of a statewide effort of the Ohio state chamber to impress upon businessmen the necessity of their acquaintance with problems of the state in a business way. W. D. Brown, manager of the local chamber, said today.

WESLEY CHURCH GROUP HOLDS MEET

Mrs. George J. Hostess To Mission Society.

Mrs. W. Martell George was hostess to the Women's Home Missionary society of Wesley M. E. church yesterday afternoon at the parsonage on Orchard street. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. O. W. McElhenny, Mrs. W. C. Boyd and Mrs. Robert Evans. Plans were made to attend the day of prayer service Friday of next week at the First United Brethren church and also to attend the revival services at Wesley M. E. church in a body Wednesday night.

Mrs. William Daynude presided for the program which included a leaflet, "Children of Susanna Wesleyan Home in Honolulu" by Miss Carrie Bain, "Our Children's Home" by Mrs. Minnie Fetter and "World Day of Prayer" by Miss Minnie Hoover. A vocal duet was contributed by Mrs. A. W. Leonard and Mrs. Pearl McCreary and Mrs. Fred Upton read the scrapbook selections. Mrs. James Barkley conducted the enigmas.

Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Mrs. Clara Snyder was a guest. The club will meet March 8.

The annual meeting of the directors for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year, will be held on the first Monday in March. It was announced at the office of the loan company this morning.

YOUTH ARRESTED ON AUTO TAG CHARGE

Darrell Gamble, 20, of 277 Forest street was being held at police headquarters today for a hearing before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin on a charge of driving with an improper license plate.

The letter B followed by the figures 50, which police say was last year's serial number, aroused the suspicions of a patrolman late last night. Gamble painted the plates to give the appearance of the 1932 plates, police charged.

On the rear tag he attached a "Marion" plate across the lower part concealing the 1931 while the 1931 on the front plate had been painted over with black paint, police said.

AID SOCIETY HAS GUEST AT MEETING

Mrs. George Blinder was a guest of the ladies aid society of Salem Evangelical church at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the church parlors. Eleven members were present.

Mrs. A. Schultz opened the meeting with scripture readings, after which Mrs. Frank Bender offered prayer. Announcement was made that German Lenten services will be held each Sunday afternoon at the church, beginning Sunday. A meeting of the society will be held March 3 with Mrs. Anna Mayer of 525 south Prospect street.

LIFE SAVER CORPS GET CERTIFICATES

Junior and Senior Group Members Get Awards at Meeting.

First aid certificates were issued to six members of the Junior Life Saver corps and to three members of the Senior corps at a meeting of the Junior corps in the Red Cross headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. building last night.

Seniors receiving certificates were Jean Drake, Rachael Hinklin and Mrs. Ethel Bauman and the juniors were Howard Edsall, Edward Smith, Robert Fultz, Merle Peacock, Earl Bourquin and Thomas Zalk. The awards were made by Miss Gay Kellogg after the final tests had been passed by the applicants. The seniors were required to take 15 hours and the juniors 10 hours of training before taking the final tests.

It was also decided by the members of the Junior corps at the meeting to prepare teams for entrance into the first aid contest to be held by the Red Cross later in the year. It was also decided that emblems would be awarded to each member of the life saving corps who performed some deed either of first aid or water rescue. The emblem to be worn on the bathing suit as is now the case with such emblems. The deed, it was declared, must be performed at some personal risk.

PRESENTS PROPOSAL TO GUARANTEE PEACE

French Delegate Asks Arms Conference To Form International Police.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 5.—Concrete proposals for establishment of an international police force to guarantee the security of the world were presented formally to the world disarmament conference today by Andre Tardieu, French minister of war and head of his country's delegation to the conference.

The French declaration, presented with a sudden gesture which took the assembled delegates by surprise, dealt at great length with technical details of armaments and national defense.

Tardieu particularly outlined France's wishes with regard to reduction of airplanes, tanks, big guns and other instruments of aggressive warfare.

It was at the end of the day's brief session that Tardieu sprung his surprise by asking for the floor.

By The Associated Press
INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 5.—Boxing claimed its second fatality of the week in Indiana here last night. The death of Johnny Fagg, Clinton, Ind., lightweight, followed by two days that of Cyril Hughes, Rockport, Ind., lightweight who succumbed to overexertion during a bout at Evansville Tuesday.

Fagg was injured Tuesday when he was knocked out by Al Holden of Worcester, Mass. He never regained consciousness.

Coroner Fred Velding said an autopsy showed Fagg died from hemorrhages caused by concussion of the brain.

Quiz Business Men.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 5.—A survey is being made of the city of Buenos Aires this week by the Chicago Association of Commerce to determine the reaction to a proposed air mail and express service in the city.

The survey, which is being conducted in other cities throughout the country, is made through questionnaires sent to all local business men.

To Conduct Service.

Rev. F. T. Nichols, pastor of the United Brethren parish west of Marion, will conduct revival services at the Hopewell church for the next two weeks. He will preach each night at 7:30 p. m. Among the subjects he will preach on are "A Conversation with the Devil" and "A Conversation with Jesus Christ."

FLOODS THREATEN IN SOUTHERN OHIO AREA

General Rains Swell Already High Rivers; Two Negroes Drowned.

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 5.—Sharp rises in the Big Sandy, Elk and Licking rivers continued to swell the Ohio river from Ashland, Ky., to below Cincinnati today and contributed indirectly to the drowning of two unidentified negroes.

General rains over the Ohio valley Wednesday night pushed the Ohio up to 49.9 feet here early today and observers said they were expecting from three to four feet more, although fair and cold weather might hold it down near the 52 foot flood stage.

Backwater from the Licking river drove several boats creek out of its banks near Newport. It was there the two negroes drowned when their automobile struck a bridge abutment, plunged into the creek and pinned them under the water.

Many house boat dwellers along the Ohio here fled to safer quarters. Several unoccupied small craft were swept away.

Much low farm land in southern Ohio and northern Kentucky already has been inundated but no serious damage has been reported.

BARBOUR TO URGE G. O. P. WET PLANK

Morrow's Successor in Senate Announces Stand on Prohibition.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Senator W. Warren Barbour of New Jersey announced today he would urge the Republican national convention to adopt a wet plank in its 1932 platform.

Barbour, who succeeded Dwight W. Morrow in the senate, made public his stand in a telegram to Edgar A. Knapp of Red Bank, N. J., who had asked for his position.

"I believe," Barbour said, "that there is a majority sentiment against the prohibition law as it now exists and that the Republican party should not and cannot afford to longer ignore the issue."

Barbour's statement followed closely upon the declaration of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania for a state liquor control amendment to the constitution and modification of the Volstead law. Last night F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, asserted the Davis stand represents surrender to the arbitrary demands of the ruthless wet ware machine.

FOREST LAWN CLASS ELECTS AT MEETING

Mrs. Gene Winters was elected president of the Loyalty Bible class of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church at a meeting yesterday afternoon with Mrs. W. E. Walker of Chicago avenue. Elected with her were Mrs. Albert Willis, vice president; Mrs. L. E. Moore, secretary; Mrs. James O'Dowd, teacher, and Mrs. Rilla Peet, reporter.

FILES ENTRY IN DAMAGE SUIT

Action Taken in Case Against C. A. Owens.

An entry virtually killing the $50,000 damage suit of Orlando Graff against Clifford A. Owens was dismissed by Judge George B. Scofield on a demurrer filed by Owens.

Graff sought damages for personal injuries suffered when a dynamite cap exploded July 4, 1930. The explosion occurred in a railroad tower near Bellefontaine ave. Suit was brought against Owens, the petition charging that the caps had been taken from the Owens quarries south of here, and that Owens was negligent in permitting the caps to be exposed around the quarry.

The law firm of Mouser, Young, Mouser & Wiant represented Owens. Graff was represented by the law firm of Deeds & Cole of Toledo and Carhart, Warner & Carhart of Marion.

TALKS ON HOMES GIVEN AT MEETING

The Woman's Home Missionary society of Epworth M. E. church held an all-day meeting yesterday at the church. Preceding the luncheon hour, the time was devoted to sewing, and to a review of the fifth chapter of the study book, "The Challenge of Change," by Mrs. F. L. Carhart. A covered dish luncheon at the noon hour was followed by an executive board meeting and the monthly program.

INJURIES CAUSE DEATH OF WOMAN

Mrs. Esther S. Driscoll, 79, Dies at Waddell Ladies' Home.

Mrs. Esther S. Driscoll, 79, a resident of Marion city and county for many years, died yesterday at 11:55 p. m. at the Waddell Ladies home at 1241 east Center street.

Three weeks ago she fell in her room, suffering a fractured hip. The injury and her advanced age caused her death. She was born Sept. 25, 1852, in New Albany, O., to Noble and Hannah Plant Landon. Daniel Driscoll, to whom she was married April 19, 1876, preceded her in death Feb. 21, 1903.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Gilbert L. Shepherd of Marion R. F. D. No. 3, and a brother, Lyman Landon of LaRue. A son and daughter, three sisters and three brothers are dead.

Mrs. Driscoll was a member of the First United Brethren church. She became a resident of the home in 1926.

The funeral will be conducted Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Waddell home. Burial will be made in the Brush Ridge cemetery. The body will remain at the C. E. Curtis Co. mortuary on east Center street and will be removed to the Waddell home Saturday.

BRINGS GUNS HERE FOR USE IN TRIAL

Revolvers To Be Introduced in Wickham Trial.

Guns allegedly used in the $2,000 Bettaville bank robbery last Dec. 5 were brought to Marion yesterday by Seneca county authorities for use of local officers in the prosecution of Robert J. Wickham, 36, of Carey, who next Thursday will be tried in common pleas court on a charge of robbing the Morral bank of $2,500.

Alva Wilcox, 23, of Carey, sentenced to a term of 20 years in the penitentiary when he pleaded guilty to participating in the Bettaville holdup, told local authorities that Wickham staged the Morral robbery. With the Morral and Bettaville robberies thus linked, authorities are attempting to have one of the guns used at Bettaville identified as one allegedly used by Wickham in the Morral holdup.

If you must

Be sure that you get full value for every dollar you spend in buying a washer. Look at its construction—it must be sturdy and strong to give years-long service. Look at its capacity—it must be ample for your needs. Look at its features—you should have every safeguard and convenience. The Haag 55 will stand closest scrutiny on all these points—and it meets your price!
